THE REAL ISSUES

Discussed and Forcibly Presented By Tom L. Johnson In a Speech At Cleveland-Hanna and Attorney General Sheets Shown Up.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—Mayor Johnson addressed about 1,000 people last night at his tent meeting on Pearl street. He paid considerable attention to Senator Hanna and Attorney General Sheets in his discussion of the proposed city bond issues. Concerning Attorney General Sheets and Hanna he said:

"It was Mr. Sheets who brought the injunction suit to block three-cent fare in Cleveland. It was Mr. Sheets who instituted the ouster which threw down city government that Mr. Hanna's street railroad interests might not suffer. Mr. Sheets has always been on that side, working night and main. For years these Republican leaders have been using their party to help out their business interests, so called, which means their special privileges. We have had proof after proof, and this last injunction is but one more."

"I have nothing against Senator Hanna personally. If I knew anything against him, which I do not, I wouldn't use it in politics. But when he uses his power in his party to benefit his own personal interests and the interests of his friends, his conduct becomes proper for public criticism and condemnation."

"The important issue in the campaign which will be fought out this month is not who will be the next United States Senator, but the issue of home rule—whether we shall be governed in local affairs from Columbus by officials who are not responsible to you or by your local officials."

"Some prominent Republicans have said already that as Guyahoga goes, so goes the state. To this I say amen. There is in my mind not the shadow of a doubt but that this fall 14 members of the Legislature will be sent from Guyahoga county to Columbus pledged to fight for home rule and just taxation, and to break up the unholy alliance between the Republican leaders and the privileged corporations of the state."

"They will tell you that all you have to do is to vindicate Senator Hanna by sending him back to the Senate. They will talk to you of national issues, perhaps of the ship subsidy. They will say that this is a Republican state, a Republican county, a Republican city—that all that is necessary is to organize and get out the vote. This organization is a good thing. When they get to sending around carnations for the voters it is a good thing all around, for a good many of those they carry to the polls do not vote as they expected, when they get inside the caucus."

Gwynn. He is prominent in the business life of his city, and it always ready to aid any public spirited enterprise for the good of his home town. Mr. Gwynn is general manager of the Delaware Electric Light, Heat and Power company, and is also engaged in the construction of hot water heating plants for cities, being the patentee of the Gwynn Central Station system. Mr. Gwynn never before aspired to political preferment, nor has he held any public office. His personal popularity, his success in business, and his eminent qualifications for the Senate are relied on to carry Delaware county against the Republican nominee, Judge N. F. Overturn, also of Delaware, and the present incumbent.

The delegation from Delaware county arrived in Newark Wednesday evening, and the Delaware candidate, E. F. Gwynn, Esq., immediately opened headquarters in parlor 1 of the Hotel Warden.

The Delaware people came early and were a unit for Gwynn, each one wearing a bright yellow badge with their candidate's name printed in heavy black letters.

It looked very much as if Mr. Gwynn would be the nominee of the convention by acclamation, and the politicians of Delaware county were much surprised upon the arrival of the Perry county delegates by the announcement that they had a candidate in the person of Prof. R. F. Small, an attorney of New Lexington, who is now superintendent of the public schools at Junction City. This announcement complicated matters, and both candidates began hard work among the Licking county delegates. The result, however, not being apparent.

Muskingum county did not get in until Thursday morning, and they announced that there would be no candidate from that county. As between Small and Gwynn the delegates were non-committal, and the situation was uncertain before the convention met.

THE NOMINEE

Mr. Gwynn is a Popular and Very Successful Business Man of Delaware—He's a Winner.

E. F. Gwynn of Delaware county, was born in Tiffin, Seneca county, in 1864, and is in every sense of the word a self-made man. He went to Delaware about 15 years ago, and today there is no man in the county who is better known or more popular than "Ed."

Reliance, of Course, is Leading—Looks Like Boats May Finish by 5:30 O'Clock.

Highlands, N. J., Sept. 3.—A thick, heavy fog which would be a credit to old London town, and one which made the British tars on the cup yacht Shamrock think they were in England, came rolling and swirling over the America's cup course today and made prospect for the sailing of the third race of the international series between Reliance and Shamrock anything but cheerful. A light four knot breeze from the north by west piled up the fog in heavy banks. The quarter from which the wind was blowing, though, held out some hope that possibly the fog would be blown off before the day was over so as to permit the sailing of a race. In spite of the dubious prospects this morning the men on the cup yachts went about the work of making sail with a vim that contrasted strangely with the feelings of the yacht owners who have given up hopes of sailing a race between now and Thanksgiving day.

IS NOW ON BETWEEN THE TWO YACHTS.

Reliance, of Course, is Leading—Looks Like Boats May Finish by 5:30 O'Clock.

Highlands, N. A light four knot breeze from the north by west piled up the fog in heavy banks. ALASKAN BOUNDARY TRIBUNAL MEETS TODAY

COMMISSIONERS OF THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN IN SESSION IN LONDON—HISTORY OF THE DISPUTE.

London, Sept. 3.—The members of the Alaskan boundary commission held their first meeting in the foreign office today.

Thirty persons, including secretaries and counsel, were present at the meeting of the commission. No business was transacted, the meeting being devoted to organization. Lord Alverstone, Lord Justice of England, was chosen president; Reginald Tower, British minister to Stuttgart, secretary; John H. Carter, of the American embassy, and Pone of the Canadian office, assistant secretaries. The next meeting will be held September 15, when the Canadian argument will be heard. It was decided that the meetings, all of which will be held in the foreign office shall be open to the public. The commission will be in session five days in the week. Lord Alverstone, in a short speech, expressed the hope that there might be no unnecessary delay and he thought the arguments should be finished by Oct. 9. The commission then adjourned and its members were photographed on the steps of the foreign office.

It is the general belief that the United States cannot lose. The three American commissioners will probably favor the United States, the same as both Canadians will favor the dominion, and the result therefore depends upon the decision of Lord Alverstone. If he agrees with the Canadian contention there will be a dead lock. The result then may be a compromise. It has been suggested that if this happens America may take the whole of the disputed territory and make a substantial money payment to Canada.

London, Sept. 3.—The tribunal appointed by treaty between the United States and Great Britain to consider the Alaskan boundary dispute meets today for the first time at Burlington house.

It consists of three British commissioners—Lord Alverstone, Sir Lewis Jettie (lieutenant governor of Quebec) and Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K. C.—and three American commissioners viz., Secretary Root, Senator Lodge and Senator Turner.

The territory in dispute covers an area of upwards of 20,000 square miles. For the most part it is mountainous, but it includes gold mines. The quarrel centers round the question of the whereabouts of the boundary between Alaska and Canada.

Originally, Alaska was Russian territory. In 1825 the boundary line was defined—on paper—by a treaty between Great Britain and Russia. In 1867 the United States bought Alaska from the czar, and then the Canadian-Alaskan frontier began to be peopled. As the boundary line fixed by the 1825 treaty had never been properly surveyed, the boundary was in dispute.

GOVERNOR RUNS STATE AFTER RULES OF METHODIST CHURCH

GOV. MICKEY, OF NEBRASKA LIVES UP TO HIS RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES IN PUBLIC AS WELL AS PRIVATE LIFE.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 3.—Nebraska has a church, John H. Mickey was elected governor who end avows to run the governor at the last election. Little was known of him at that time, except that he was a successful banker and bore a high reputation for personal integrity.

The first bump the politicians got was when the governor declared that the time honored custom of an inaugural ball must be dispensed with. The party managers were aghast and the young men and maidens were indignant. The matter was finally smoothed over, and a compromise was effected, by which the young people were permitted to dance. But the ball was not the usual success.

Gov. Mickey was born in Iowa in time to serve through the rebellion with the Eleventh Iowa cavalry. He then went to the war for two years and moved to Nebraska. He located at Osceola, where he served 10 years as county treasurer. He served a term in the Nebraska legislature in the early '80s. He has a wife and nine children, and is president of the Osceola bank, and also of the board of trustees of the Wesleyan university at Lincoln.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Newark Citizen is Followed.

Woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Newark women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. J. T. Purcell of 345 Schuler St., says: "My back ached all the time. As a rule it was very severe, but it hurt me much more when I overtaxed myself or occupied certain positions in which my back was strained considerably or when I was setting sewing. I obtained little benefit from the treatment which I took so little, in fact, that I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills, when advertised at Crayton's drug store in Newark. They did for me what others failed to do, for they took away from my back that distressing pain and ache. I know of friends of mine who were as much the gainers through their use as I."

READY FOR BUSINESS.

A Ring From Secretary Shaw's Office and the Response Thereof.

One day recently when Secretary Shaw was dictating a letter the door leading into his office suddenly swung open, and there stood a man with a 44 caliber Colt's revolver in his hand. The weapon was about a foot long and was loaded with cartridges the size of a man's thumb. The man's finger was on the trigger, and he seemed ready for business. A friend of the secretary was sitting in the office, and it seemed to him that there soon would be "something doing."

But there was no shooting. The secretary looked curiously at the intruder, and the next instant the latter was apologizing.

"Did you ring?" he asked.

"No," replied the secretary.

"The signal went off downstairs, and I thought you rang. Excuse me, sir."

"All right," said Mr. Shaw. And the man with the gun retired. He was a member of the treasury watch. Accidentally the alarm connecting the captain's room and the secretary's desk was sounded, and he had hastened upstairs to defend Mr. Shaw against a possible assailant.

There is a pearl button at the end of an electric wire at the secretary's elbow, and if he needs assistance against assault a slight pressure will bring the treasury guard to his aid. This contrivance was installed three years ago, after Frank H. Morris of Cleveland, the war department auditor, was assassinated in his office by a disgruntled clerk. Lyman J. Gage was then the head of the treasury, and Frank A. Vandervlip was an assistant secretary.

Threats were uttered against both of them, and they immediately prepared for any contingency. Each was given a big revolver, which reposed on a little shelf upon the lid of his desk, and then the desks were connected by electric wire with the office of the captain of the guard. But no one ever offered to molest either official, and their successors likewise have been free from annoyance.—Cleveland Leader.

A New Literature.

A new literature is in process of development. You often hear an intelligent man or woman say, "I always look in the back first." If you carefully seek the reason for this you will discover that in the pages and pages of advertising in the back of the magazines is to be found not only much that is instructive, but much that is interesting and suggestive in a purely literary way. The modern advertisement is worth looking at, whether it is the sounding proclamation of some big corporation, with facts and figures both weighty and impressive, or the light, eye catching notice of some simple trade or contrivance. All forms of literary composition find place in the advertising pages—history, story, verse. Many advertisements measure up to the test of good literature. In truth, there is often an uncommon amount of character in them. A word here or a phrase there is often singularly vivid as "local color" and behind many an advertisement it is possible to see a vigorous personality.—Booklover's Magazine.

Counterfeit Art.

The archeologist who was chosen some time ago to determine the authenticity of the tiara of Saitaphanes, a supposedly precious relic of the Louvre collection, reported that the tiara was not authentic and that it was executed by a Russian artist of the name of Roukhomorsky. The French government paid $40,000 for the tiara and would probably be willing at present to sell it at a large discount.

While nobody over here is likely to wish the French government any special harm, it must be more or less gratifying to some of the Americans who have paid big prices for spurious works of art to be able to smile at the expense of people who are supposed to know all about art and relics and such things. It is claimed by experts that not more than about one in ten of the Raphaels scattered through Europe is genuine, and if it is so with the Raphaels the probabilities are that a very large percentage of the so called examples of the other masters are counterfeit.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Radium in the Sun.

W. E. Wilson of Daramara, taking the observation that one grain of radium can supply 100 calories per hour, has computed the proportion of radium in the sun which would be required to account for its output of energy. Langley calculated that the sun is producing energy at the rate of $23,000,000 calories per square centimeter per hour, and taking this figure, it would require but 3.6 grams (about fifty-four grains) of radium per cubic meter (39.37 inches) of the sun's volume to account for the entire energy given out by the latter. Mr. Wilson suggests that possibly at the enormous solar temperature radium may be capable of even more energetic action, and if so, the 3.6 grams per cubic meter might be reduced to a still smaller amount.

Colored Rain.

The curious phenomenon of colored rain, which occurs in various parts of the world, has at last been explained. In some cases the coloring matter is found to be nothing but the pollen dust shaken out of flowers on certain trees at such times as a strong wind was blowing over them. Fir trees and cypress trees when grouped together in large forests at certain seasons of the year give off enormous quantities of pollen, and this vegetable dust is often carried many miles through the atmosphere by the wind and frequently falls to the earth in a shower of rain. The microscope clearly reveals the origin of such colored rain, which has on more than one occasion puzzled and mystified the inexperienced.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains.

"Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is sapping away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—Mrs. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich. "5000 Forfeit If original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced."

The record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cannot be equalled by any other medicine in the world.

AMUSEMENTS.

There will be a week's carnival of high class theatricals, interspersed by equally high-class vaudeville, at the Auditorium next week. The Robinson Stock company, 22 talented people, supporting the well known and popular star, Miss Margaret Neville, will hold the boards.

This is the largest stock company that has ever visited this city. It is composed of more people; has more scenery and finer costumes; and gives more performances than any other stock company that has ever before visited this city. Manager Rosebraugh has mapped out a feast of good things for the patrons of his house for the week just opening and the cozy little theatre will no doubt be crowded to its capacity at night and matinee performances.

The first performance by the Robinson company will be given Monday night. There will be a change of bill at each and every performance. Popular prices will prevail.

The Robinson company closed a highly successful week's engagement at Findlay, O., recently. The Courier, of that city, has the following to say of Miss Neville and the supporting company:

"A magnificent house greeted Margaret Neville and the Robinson Stock company in 'Salome' last night at the Marvin. Findlay theatre-goes fell in love with Miss Neville as 'Salome' instantly and as the play progressed could not help but be impressed with her work.

"The story was a pathetic one" with a very unusual ending—the death of the heroine at the feet of the man Gray, who does not need foot lights to make him handsome, took the part of this man, and supported Miss Neville well. Pearl Sizer won many hearts by her naturalness and artfulness on the stage. The scenery was all the company's own and was very pretty.

"Miss Neville wore a gown in act III that made the ladies in the audience miss a good deal of the dialogue. It was a deep scarlet velvet, with soft lace edging, cut low at the neck and with lacework sleeves."

JOHNSON'S VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN.

Tom L. Johnson has already started his campaign. He has started out to win and he will work to win as few other men in the state would or could work. He is fighting for justice and equality in taxation and home rule for cities. He is campaigning with as much vigor right now as though it were the last week of the campaign. He is speaking in Northern Ohio and is telling the people just where he stands without equivocation and without the slightest regard for the protests of the outraged Republican brethren who hold up their hands in holy horror and point out the terrific mistakes that Mr. Johnson is making. But Mr. Johnson has a way of paying attention to the subject matter and allowing the critics to hurl their darts at will.

The attorney general of Missouri has commenced legal proceedings against a great monopoly controlling the commerce and business of St. Louis, otherwise what is called the Terminal monopoly, comprising three or four corporations controlling bridges, ferries and railroads crossing into St. Louis from the Illinois side. They represent a proprietary interest amounting to about $300,000,000. It represents a financial merger on a scale approaching company "that of President J. J. Hill's "Northern Securities Company." Banker Morgan appears as one of the parties in the suit, he having had charge of the sale of Terminal bonds. The particular allegation is that the Terminal has a monopoly on St. Louis freight traffic, controlling "every available St. Louis entrance, both on incoming and outgoing traffic, crossing the Mississippi river."

CLEVELAND ON FISHING.

Ex-President Says He Has Only Contempt For His Deriders.

Grover Cleveland made merry with the members and guests of the Old Colony club at a clambake on Marshall's Island the other day, says a special dispatch from Bourne, Mass., to the New York Times. The feature of the day was a short humorous address he made. Mr. Cleveland said in part:

"For a number of years I have been honored with membership in the Old Colony club, but this is the first time that I have attended one of its clambakes. Therefore I rise full of clams, hot corn and enthusiasm for the welfare of the Old Colony club and zeal for its interests.

"I hope that the club will persevere in its efforts toward the unremitting preservation of the Buzzards bay fisheries, and I am willing to take out all the benefits of the club in fishing. Within the past few years I have been widely jeered and derided for spending so much of my time at fishing. For those who jeer and deride me I have only a quiet and unqualified contempt. I go fishing because I like it, and I hope that I will continue to go fishing until as near the end of the chapter as possible.

"I should like to say right here that I am more interested in the protection of the fishing at Buzzards bay than about our hoary headed infant industries. I care more for these fishing interests than I do about the policy of the next federal administration. I hope that the Old Colony club will keep up its fight for the protection of the fisheries. Let there be no relaxations or compromise. Keep up the fight unceasingly.

"Perhaps some of you are aware that an interesting event has recently taken place in our domestic circle. I am proud to say that another future fisherman has quite lately increased the population of Buzzards Bay by one. Now, some people are in the habit of telling fish stories, and some people, notably a well known physician of my acquaintance, are accustomed to weigh their catch of fish on their own private scales. Although this happy event was not the occasion for telling any unusual yarns, I put my fish scales into requisition and weighed my latest catch honestly, and the tally was an even nine pounds."

Before the merriment had subsided the presiding officer, Joseph Jefferson, who had kept moving nervously about on his seat, rose to a point of order and stated dryly that it was "quite natural for the son of a fisherman to be weighed with scales."

LIPTON HELPED HER.

How Irish Baronet Assisted Southern Girl in Getting a Home.

Among the arrivals at New York on the steamer Philadelphia the other day was Miss Reata Windell, an attractive southern girl of considerable talent as a violinist, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. She went to London last February expecting to meet with success. The engagements failed, and she became penniless. She told the following story of her experiences in London:

"I took my little violin and went out to play on the street corners of London, hoping to secure enough to keep life in my body. The first penny I received was given me by a colored man. You can imagine the feelings of a southern girl at such a humiliation. Finally I caught a severe cold and had an attack of typhoid fever. I was cared for in Charing Cross hospital. When I recovered I secured work at £1 a week in a restaurant. A gentleman who heard my story called the attention of Sir Thomas Lipton to my plight, and he came to my assistance. It is through his kindness that I am once more in my native land. He is the first person I shall look up, and I shall depend on his advice how and where to resume my musical career."

A Plant Disliked by Mosquitoes.

A consular report to the state department at Washington says that the Deutsche Kolonial Zeitung reports the finding in north Nigeria of a plant (ocimumvridae) two or three of which when placed in a room or on a veranda will remove mosquitoes. The effect is produced by the odor exhaled. This resembles thymian and eucalyptus. The natives extract an essence from the plant that is an excellent substitute for quinine. It is not only equal in its effects, but it lacks many of quinine's disagreeable attributes. The Deutsche Ostafrika Zeitung reports that a great many natives are familiar with a mosquito plant, called by them "rumbasi," which has similar properties to the one above described.

The Summer of 1903.

It will be a fine thing when the years have slipped by. And a new generation appears to the eye. As happy as happy can be. To tell, while young hearts are with sympathy warmed. Of the year when the summer good and reformed.

The summer of nineteen-three. The zephyrs that used to be parched were so mild. That they seemed like the sigh of a comforted child. As they swept o'er the blossoming lea. And the sky overhead as it smiled on the bay. With a canopied cloud kept the sunshine away. The summer of nineteen-three. It was like some old rogue who is changing his mind. And resolves to be generous, gentle and kind. To atone for a life overfree. And, though some backslidings occurred new and then. It cooled off and tried not to do it again. The summer of nineteen-three.

BRYAN IS FOR CLARKE

Gives Clear Statement of His Reasons for Supporting the Ohio Democratic Candidate for United States Senator.

Columbus, Sept. 3.—William Jennings Bryan gave out the following authorized statement Wednesday, containing the reasons why he supports the candidacy of John H. Clark for United States Senator, who was endorsed by the Ohio Democracy at the State Convention last week:

"I would have preferred the nomination of some one who had been active and earnest in the support of all the planks of our platform, but the delegates who endorsed the Kansas City platform also endorsed Mr. Clarke, and after talking with him and listening to his speech last night, I am satisfied that his sympathies are with the people in their fight against organized wealth, and that if elected senator he can be trusted to stand for the reforms for which the Democratic party is contending. As an evidence that sympathies are with the masses I point to the fact that he has long advocated the election of senators by a direct vote—a reform without which other reforms are impossible. He is opposed to government by injunction, and this question is a good test of his sympathies. He is in favor of an income tax—another proof that he is not the representative of plutocracy. His views on imperialism and the tariff are also sound and in line with Democratic purposes. His one difference is on one phase of the money question—namely, metallic money—and on this question I believe he was grievously in error in 1896.

"But since that time the quantitative theory of money has been established and the arguments made in favor of a larger volume of money have been vindicated. Believing as I do, that his sympathies are right, I shall trust him to carry out his platform on all questions that come before him rather than give encouragement to those who would elect a Republican legislature and thus not only return Mr. Hanna but prevent the enactment of needed state legislation. On the more acute phases of the money question I believe he will be found in entire harmony with Kansas City platform Democrats. I cannot conceive of his supporting an asset currency or the Aldrich bill, neither do I believe that he would support the Republican measures which provide for branch banks and for making the silver dollar redeemable in gold.

"Mr. Clarke recognizes, as he said last night, that revolutions do not go backward; he recognizes that the Democratic party is marching forward to meet the issues presented by plutocracy and he is opposed to the scheme of the reorganizers. While we might prefer some other Democrat to him we certainly must prefer him to a Republican who is against us on all questions, especially when the legislature that will elect him will also give the people home rule, cheaper railroad fares and more equitable taxation. To oppose him because of his action in 1896, in spite of the fact that he helped us heartily in 1900, in spite of the fact that he has supported Johnson in all his reforms, in spite of the fact that he is now helping us on everything except one phase of one question, and in spite of the fact that on that question I believe his sympathies will lead him to our side when he thoroughly understands the subject—to oppose him, I say, in spite of these things would be unreasonable and unjust."

REUNION

OF THE 88TH OHIO REGIMENT AT COLUMBUS.

F. G. Steele of Newark is Re-elected President—Feature Was Sketch of Camp Chase.

Columbus, Sept. 3.—The Eighty-eighth Ohio held its reunion yesterday in the hall at Gay and Front streets. A feature of the meeting was a large lithographic sketch of Camp Chase, as it existed during the war, a rare and valuable relic.

F. G. Steele of Newark presided, and J. H. Patterson of Wapakoneta was secretary. The following officers were re-elected: President, F. G. Steele of Newark; vice president, M. H. Peters, Urbana; secretary, J. H. Patterson, Wapakoneta; treasurer, Ira Gwynne, Bellefontaine; historian, C. J. Richardson, Willoughby.

Jack McQuinney Who Took Compassion on the Men Was Fined Ten Dollars.

Coshocton, O., Sept. 3.—A bunch of inebriated prisoners, lined up before Mayor Rinner was the cause of an investigation that disclosed surprising results. The half dozen prisoners had been placed in the prison the night before, and had plenty of time in which to become sober. Some of them had not been arrested for intoxication, but all were drunk when arraigned.

The investigation resulted in the arrest of Jack McQuinney, who, having "been there" himself, felt compassion upon his fellow mortals, and procuring two quarts of whiskey and a funnel, poured in drinks through a small aperture in a broken window. Each prisoner would connect himself with the business end of the funnel and drink his fill. McQuinney was fined $10.

THE FOUND CHORD

Seated one night at the organ, idly thumping the keys, I heard a buzzing approaching, astride of the soft night breeze; A hum that I realized quickly was that of the skeeter brigade, And the door, I knew, was wide open, as usual, whenever I played.

Dreaming a dream that was foolish, I thought, "I am surely proof Against the assaults of these insects while sitting beneath my roof." But in they poured—thousands and thousands—and rushed me before I could run.

In a moment they had me cornered and started in for their fun!

And then, like a great inspiration, there came to my mind the bold claim Of the man who said music was fatal to skeeters (I haven't his name). So firmly I stuck to playing and put the loud pedal down hard While I ripped out a tune that would kill 'em if they were within half a yard!

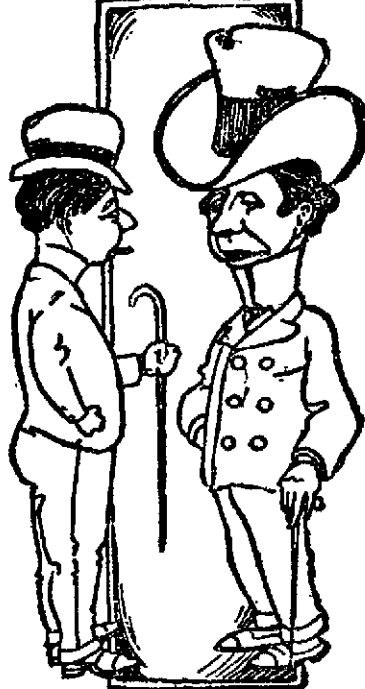

'Twas a mix up of popular pieces—"Hawa-ha-ha" pervading the whole—And ere the first one had been rendered the dead insects started to roll Down my face and my collar and shirt front till they choked up the ivory keys, And the neighbors sent over a message, "Oh, what is the cause of this, please?"

But I played till the last mad mosquito had passed in his checks. Then I stopped, And, filled with emotions distracting, my tired head in my hands dropped; The chords that I'd mangled had saved me; but, oh—the thought now gives me pain—

I fear that the next time they jump me I can't play the same thing again!

"What?" shouted her father, starting up.

THOSE NAPS ARE CERTAINLY ON SPRINGS.

The above cartoon represents the varied career of the Cleveland baseball club known in fandom as "The Naps," taking the name from their famous captain, Napoleon Lajoie. The club recently, after vacillating about in fourth and fifth position in the American League race, won 14 out of 16 games played, and was picked to beat out Jimmy Collins' Boston team. It now looks, however, as if "The Naps," will have to be content with second place.

This Matter of Smoke.

We are sure that our view of the cigar business is unusual. Most druggists and all cigar dealers sell cigars to make money. We sell them to make friends—and money too in the long run. We want to get smokers into the store and let them judge what kind of a business we conduct by the kind of cigar they get. In cigars as in drugs we get the best that money can buy.

FOUR TIMES
Married and Thrice Divorced in Five Years the Record of a Young Springfield Woman.
Springfield, O., Sept. 3.—It is not often that a young woman of 23 years can boast of having been married four times and divorced three times within a period of five years. This is the experience of pretty Amanda A. Stretcher, of this city. Her parents live in Lagonda and are highly respected. Her last matrimonial adventure took place last night, when she was married to Charles L. Converse of this city.
Miss Stretcher was first married to Ward Snyder, six years ago. Her husband had charge of the elevator in the Bushnell building. It did not take them long to find out that they were unsuited for each other, and within a year they were divorced. Later they kissed and made up and were married again.
Married life did not prove a success and they were legally separated the second time. Later she married Leroy Roberts, a musician. He failed to charm her, and she was divorced from him after a short married experience.
In each instance she was restored to her maiden name. Now she is the wife of Charles Converse, the son of Dr. C. R. Converse, Rev. Mr. Leydon of Columbus having tied the knot.

RUNAWAY
In Which C. T. Bricker Was Slightly Hurt, Buggy Wrecked and the Horse Injured.
Mr. C. T. Bricker, the well known druggist, figured in a frightful runaway at an early hour Thursday morning. He was driving down town, and when near the corner of Fifth and West Main streets, his horse frightened at something on the street, and ran away. The animal ran across the street, where Mr. Bricker was thrown out of the buggy with considerable force, but fortunately escaped serious injury, although badly shaken up and bruised. The horse then ran east on Main street, and when in front of J.
Gleichauf's furniture store, ran in between a water plug and a telephone pole, completely wrecking the buggy.
The horse was badly injured, the flesh on his legs and sides being torn.

FRIGHTENED
By the Trumpeting of a Circus Elephant, and the Girl's Now
a Corpse.
Findlay, O., Sept. 3.—Suffering from a strange malady, which has baffled a number of physicians, Mabel Hiskman, aged 13, died at the home of her parents near Denton Ridge yesterday.
Last June she went to see a circus. She had never been to a circus before, and while standing near the elephants' quarters one of the animals emitted its strange, trumpet-like sound. The girl fell to the ground in a dead faint. She was taken to her home, where physicians failed repeatedly to diagnose the peculiar nervous trouble, which resulted from the fright. She grew weaker and weaker day by day, until Monday night, when she became unconscious, and in this condition she remained until she died.

"GOOD WINE,"
And the Epicurean Burglar Calmly
Asked the Policeman to Have a Glass.
Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—Because of his epicurean tastes a burglar was caught red-handed here yesterday. He was a handsomely dressed young fellow of splendid physique. With him "burgling" was a mere pastime. He saw an open window in the Gallagher saloon, on Ontario street and could not resist the temptation to enter.
After rifling the money drawer he went to the sideboard and cut a nice, fat sandwich. Then, with a cold bottle
he sat down at a table to enjoy himself.

After finishing the sandwich he lighted a cigar. The wine and the cigar were good. The minutes dragged out into an hour. When Patrolman Northrup passed the saloon on his 2 o'clock round the burglar was still at the table.
The officer heard the phizz-z of a champagne bottle and entered.
"What are you doing here?" he asked.
The burglar did not move. Blowing a ring of smoke into the air he answered nonchalantly:
"Just taking a lunch. Good wine.
Have a glass?"
At the police station he gave his name as "Michael Caffit, Cosmopolitan." He was charged with burglary and larceny.

THEFT
OF $40. IS CONFESSED BY TWO COLORED BOYS.
John W. Henry and Wilbur Howard, two colored lads, aged about twelve and fourteen years respectively, were arrested by Officer Carroll and Chief Sheridan Wednesday afternoon on a charge of stealing about $40 from the Licking County Creamery depot on North Third street.
The money was in a cigar box under the counter and as soon as it was discovered the matter was reported to Officer Carroll, who began to work on the case.
Following up a clue which he obtained, the officer found the cigar box behind the First Presbyterian church, and inside of thirty minutes had the two colored boys under arrest. They confessed the theft and told where the money could be found, the entire amount being recovered. Part of the money was found at Henry's, some of it in an oyster can in Howard's coal shed, and the balance under the porch at Howard's. Both boys live on Hoover street.

PROF. TIGHT

HAS SUCCEEDED IN ASCENDING
MT. SORAT

The Highest Peak in the Andes, Accompanied by Miss Annie Peck and Two Guides.

Prof. Wm. G. Tight, formerly a member of the Denison university faculty, now president of the University of New Mexico, has in company with Miss Peck, a noted mountain climber, succeeded in ascending the highest peak in the Andes. The following press dispatch from Albuquerque, New Mexico, brings the news:

"Miss Annie Peck, of New York, who has achieved great fame as a mountain climber, accompanied by Dr. W. G. Tight, president of the University of New Mexico, and two Swiss guides, has successfully ascended Mt. Sorat, in Bolivia, the highest peak in the Andes. This is the first time the summit has been scaled."

HIS SECOND THOUGHT.

The Stage Driver Acted on It and Saved His Passengers.

Back in the good old days when nerves and railroads were little known an old stage road ran from Lake Champlain to Ogdensburg, N. Y., passing through the little town of Sodom. This village nestled in a valley between two great hills, over which the white ribbon of the road wound steeply.

Upon one of the trips of the stage the regular driver, who had been at home for some weeks recovering from an illness, was riding inside, while the red-haired, mild featured, big boned Irishman acting as his substitute occupied the driver's seat upon the box. The day was a beautiful one, and the passengers were enjoying their drive keenly, their appetites increasing as the distance lessened between them and the town of Sodom, with its promised pause for refreshment.

Suddenly as the heavy stage lumbered over the brow of the hill, down which the road plunged at a sharp angle, running through the little town at its foot and ascending the hill beyond, the passengers became conscious that their pace had been recklessly increased. Faster and faster they went, dashing down the hill at a rate rapidly becoming a furious one. Trees and bushes at last became but a dizzying blur along the road. All clung to the railing stage and held their breath in terror, while on the stage sped, down the hill with ever increasing speed, into the town, past the hostelry where the waiting host left standing in amazement at the door, past the post office without pause, and out upon the road leading up the face of the hill beyond. There the pace slackened, and as the incline grew more steep at last the smoking horses came to a standstill. With one accord the dazed passengers tumbled out and surrounded the driver, who now stood at the head of his reeking leaders.

"What is it, Pat? What is it? Did they get away from you?" came the breathless questions.

"Nope," replied Pat with a set face. "It was that," pointing grimly before him. There lay the stage tongue dragging uselessly on the ground at the heels of the horses and completely severed from the coach. At a glance the regular driver comprehended the meaning of the danger to which the passengers of that stage, deprived of its sole means of guidance, had been exposed, and, realizing the miracle of their escape, he turned sick and fainted where he stood.

Later, back at the inn, when the excitement had somewhat subsided and fresh horses were being put to the repaired coach, some one turned to Pat and asked:

"Pat, what was your first thought when the pole dropped?"

"Well, sor," he answered, settling the quid more comfortably in his cheek, "me first thought was, 'Lord ha! mercy on our souls!' Thin thinks I to meself, 'Confound a horse that can't outrun a wagon!' and I licked the poor bastes all the way down the hill!"—Lippincott's.

A Progressive Editor.

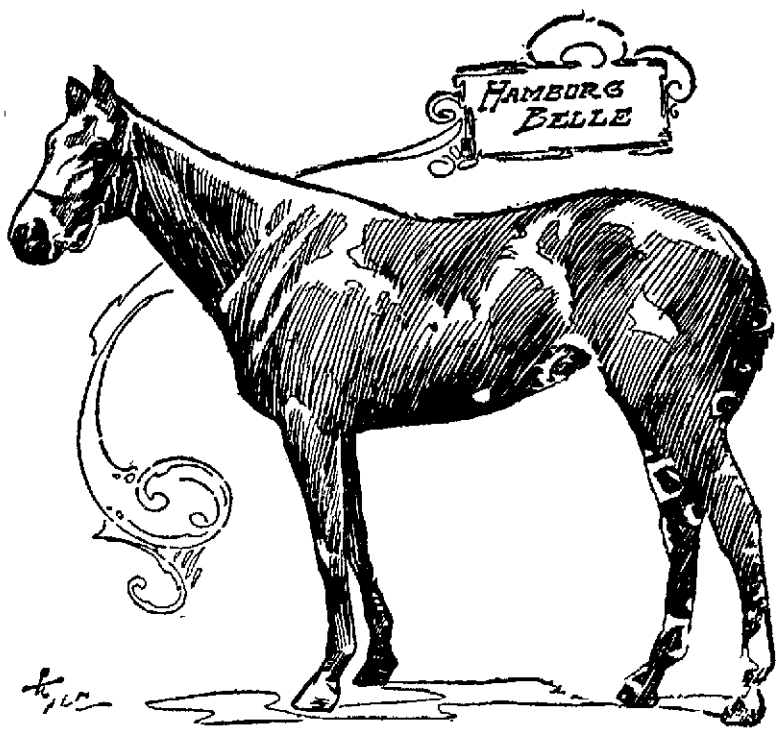

A very rich man once bought a newspaper. It was an afternoon newspaper, and he was interested in it for a month or two. One of his ideas was the publication of a noon edition that should contain more news than the noon editions of his competitors. He thought hard on this problem and finally decided it would be a great stroke to print the decisions of the United States supreme court at 12 o'clock each Monday when the court was in session.

This plan was complicated somewhat by the fact that the supreme court does not meet until noon. However, the editor was equal to the emergency. He telegraphed to his Washington correspondent, "See the supreme court at once and have them meet at 11 o'clock so we can get the decisions in our noon edition."—Saturday Evening Post.

His Life Saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"B. L. Byer, a well known cooper of this town says he believes Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved his life last summer. He had been sick for a month with what the doctors call bilious dysentery, and could get nothing to do him any good until he tried this remedy. It gave him immediate relief," says B. L. Little, merchant, Hancock, Md. For sale by all druggists.

FUTURITY WINNER INJURED MAY NEVER RACE AGAIN.

Hamburg Belle, winner of the Futurity, gave a grand demonstration of gameness and speed in winning the rich stake. Before the start the filly was kicked by The Minute Man. In the excitement, incident to the start, she did not pay attention to the kick, but when the terrible strain of the race began to tell she faltered and Fuller used the whip, thinking she was showing a weak heart. After the race, in her stall, Hamburg Belle could not rest her foot on the floor, and it is doubtful if she will ever face the starter again.

BIT OF FRENCH HISTORY.

An Empire Lost For Want of the Right Sort of Riding Habit.

An old legend which makes no pretense to truth tells how a kingdom was lost for want of a horseshoe nail. But a volume of sober historical and biographical purpose, written by Count d'Herrison, makes it appear that the Empress Eugenie, after the battle of Sedan, lost the chance to preserve the empire of her husband by not possessing exactly the right sort of riding habit. It was the evening of Sept. 3, 1870.

The news of the surrender of the French army and of the Emperor Napoleon at Sedan had spread about Paris. The city was excited, and there was talk of a revolution and the banishment of the imperial family. At this juncture Emile de Girardin, a man who was trusted by the empress and who had had no little experience during the previous changes of government, arrived at the palace of the Tuileries.

"If your majesty were to appear on horseback in the midst of the people," Girardin said, "and announce the abdication of the emperor in favor of the prince imperial, your own assumption of the title of empress regent and the appointment of Thiers as prime minister, the empire might be saved. Something must be done to turn the tide."

The empress accepted the advice. But when this leader of the world's fashion sought for a proper costume for her performance it could not be found. The only riding habit in the Tuileries was a fantastic one of green, embroidered with gold and silver, made for a festive hunting occasion, and the hat was a not less fantastic three cornered affair of the epoch of Louis Quinze. The empress felt that it would not do to appear in this garb on such an occasion. Her appearance in it might have the opposite effect upon the people from that which she intended. The plan had to be given up, the empress and the prince imperial were banished and the Napoleonic empire was at an end.

A NOSE FOR NEWS.

The Genuine Newspaper Reporter Is Born, Not Made.

"Feet are born, not made," said the retired newspaper man to the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "And I might add that reporters come into this world in much the same way. For instance, the 'born' reporter will get a story if there is one in sight, while he who only has what I would call a mechanical sort of training will skim over the same ground without ever discovering that anything out of the ordinary has happened. Not many years ago I was holding an important position on one of the principal journals of Chicago. I

CITIZENS of Cold Valley—Without waiting to express my surprise and delight over the fact that twenty-eight citizens of this progressive, go ahead town have bought tickets and are now seated before me, I plunge at once into the subject of my lecture by exhibiting to you a picture of Adam.

This was not drawn from life, but you can depend upon its being so near the original that Eye would hullo at it if she were among the audience.

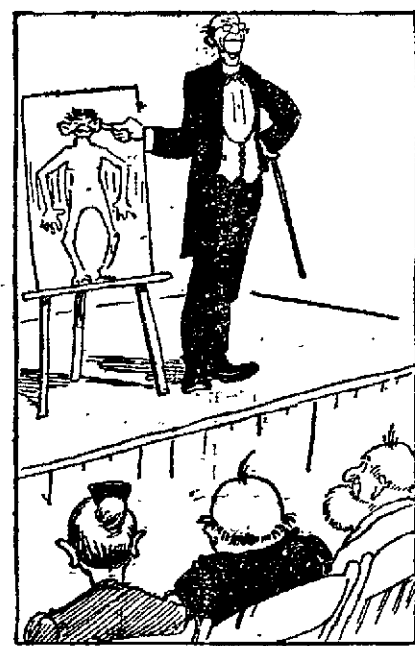

Adam, as we all know, was the first man. Nature had got through with the rhinoceros, the kangaroo and the dodo and wanted to produce something a little finer. She therefore handed out Adam.

As you here behold him he is nine feet tall, weighs 300 pounds and has hands like hams, and feet like washboards. His shoulders are humped up to his ears, his knees sprang inward, and it would take ten porous plasters to cover the length of his back.

He was the only thing like it on the face of the earth at the time, but how Eve could have fallen in love with him is beyond my time. I ask you to particularly observe his countenance. It is a cross between a bulldog and a buffalo, and he betrays no sentiment beyond ferocity.

As near as we can make out, Adam held the boards alone for about thirty years, and then there came a second man. Notice nature's progress. She had reduced the weight and bulk and shortened up the length. The ferocious expression of Adam's face has been softened up in this. Sentiment had begun to find lodgment in the human breast. This second man didn't go around uprooting trees and bowling elephants over, nor did he live on raw meat alone. He built a hut and sat down and whistled and had thoughts. He is lop shouldered, knockkneed and cock eyed, and he couldn't have found his way from Jonesville to Hobson's Corners, but he was an improvement on Adam.

In due time the third man came along, and the artist has done him full credit. His length is down to seven feet, and his bulk is no longer that of a Missouri corncrib. You will notice that his ears are the size of flapjacks, his nose stuck on most any way and his toes turn in, but you will also observe the human expression of the face.

You can see sentiment there. You can bet money that he smiled in his dreams and cursed when things went wrong during the day. I have had men say of this picture that they could trace the sentiments of love in it, and that the original was probably looking around for an eligible party with some cash or cattle back of her.

My fourth picture represents a well known Biblical character—Cain. He has been held up to the scorn of mankind for thousands of years because he killed his brother Abel; but do any of us know what provocation he had? Perhaps Abel ought to have been killed long before he was. With that, however, I have nothing to do. I made it a rule twenty years ago not to go back beyond General Jackson's administration, and I shall stick to it.

I simply ask you to note the improvement in man. The ears have been pared down and set on at a new angle, the nose has some shape to it, and the chin has come up out of the neck to see what it's all about. The back is a little too humped for manly beauty, and the toes turn in too much for good football work, but let us look at the face. Even if he has killed Abel you can see 50 per cent more of humanity. Cain felt that he had a soul in him—that he was something above the bellowing bulls and howling cows around him. We agree that it wasn't exactly the square thing for him to kill his brother, but we will also agree that he was the only man who could travel on his shape up to that date.

My next picture represents man fifty years later than Cain. Nature had been experimenting and learning wisdom. She had reduced height and bulk again and done some paring down. In fact, in this picture she has produced a fairly perfect man. We of today can find fault with the length of the neck, the width of the mouth and the hump in the middle of the nose, but there was no doubt that he was called perfect in his day and may have taken the prize at a beauty show.

I now call your attention to a series of pictures bringing man down from the garden of Eden to the year of our Lord. Nature progressed slowly, but surely. There was a heap of tinkering and touching up, but she had patience and a deft hand. Humanity was also getting in its work, and men's faces no longer looked like a pound of butter on a platter. Improvement did not stop at the year 1, however. Nature continued to improve and alter right along to thirty-five years ago, when she was satisfied with her work and sat back in her rocking chair to rest.

Ladies and gentlemen, I now place on the easel the portrait of a perfect man, and I stand aside that all may see it. Thanks. Thanks. Your applause tells me that in this picture you recognize Q. Hope Jones. I do not wish to be charged with conceit or egotism, but no man can help his looks.

On the one easel you behold Adam, on the other Q. Hope. I make this comparison that you may see the beginning and the end—the crude sample and the finished specimen. Thanks some more. Applause is always welcome when spontaneously given.

While my lecture may seem superficial to some, the thinkers will discover the moral lying beneath the surface and profit by it. It is with the kindest feeling on my part that I say to one and all of you, be honest—be truthful—be upright. Don't wallop your children or larrup your wives. You may be tempted to lie forty times per day, but don't do it. Other liars are sure to catch you at it.

There are daily temptations to steal, but keep your hands off other people's corn. By stealing with vigor and industry you may get a few dollars ahead of the game, but along comes the sheriff some day, and where are you? Don't loaf about. There is a delicious satisfaction in sitting down in the shade of a grocery and whittling a pine shingle and trying to outlie everybody in the crowd, but it doesn't buy potatoes for next winter.

Don't poison your neighbor's well, shoot his hogs, steal his wife or burn his barn. Live at peace with all, and let your motto be, "Onward and upward."

This closes the regular lecture, and if there is anything more to say I will say it after the hat has been passed around and returned to me. I may parenthetically and pathetically observe that the man who don't chip in at least 10 cents had better adopt the motto of "Backward and downward."

Scientific.

The girl's father was a physician, not in the least given to sentiment, and he did not want his daughter to marry. So the young fellows had rather a hard time of it. One day a particularly reckless chap sent her a song entitled "There's a Sigh in the Heart."

"Who ever heard of such wretchedly unscientific stuff as this?" he said.

So he wrote on the outside this message and sent it back:

"Mistaken diagnosis; no sigh in the heart possible. Sighs relate almost entirely to the lungs and diaphragm!"—Philadelphia Press.

A Flaw in the Honeymoon.

The young husband shook his head disapprovingly.

"I am afraid, Maude," he said, "that you will never understand mother's method of utilizing trifles. Why, mother, with just a scrap or two, would make as nice a pie as you ever saw."

The young wife's eyes sparkled.

"Well, John Biffinger," she said in chilly accents, "you can make up your mind once and for all that there'll be a good many scraps in this little domestic circus of ours before I attempt any pies of that sort!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Enjoyment.

"So your family went to the seashore this summer?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox.

"Did you have a good time?"

"Fine. Stayed home, smoked a pipe in the parlor, ate onions whenever I wanted them and played ragtime tunes on the music box. But I wouldn't have mother and the girls bear a word of all this for the world!"—Washington Star.

Obering Orders.

"Aw, why do you make your own cigarettes?"

"My—aw—doctor ordered me some light exercise."

Wee Dit Deaf.

Mrs. Newlied—I made a big batch of these biscuits today.

Mr. Newlied—You did indeed, dear.

Mrs. Newlied—How do you know how big a batch I made?

Mr. Newlied—Oh, I thought you said "betch."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Hardly an Apology.

"I understand you said I was a fool."

"You are mistaken. I always keep my thoughts to myself."

It Was a Success In One Way

A young lady, who engages largely in church and mission work was recently the moving spirit in some amateur theatricals which were got up in the interests of a deserving local charity. The entertainment was billed, and the performance was duly given in the town hall. But somehow or other no notice was taken of it in the local newspapers. A few days later a friend met the young lady in question, when the conversation turned to the theatricals.

"Was the entertainment a success?"

"I should think it was," replied the lady, with a smile. "Why, we got over £20."

"Is that so?" said the friend. "Then you must have had a large audience?"

"Well, no," she replied. "We only took in 2s. 6d. at the door, but father gave us a check for £20 if we would promise never to do it again."—Tit-Bits.

As He Saw It.

"What is the difference between a violinist and a fiddler?"

"The difference," answered the concert manager, "is enormous, anywhere from $500 to $5,000 a week."—Washington Star.

ELECTRICIAN FIANCE OF SOUTHERN BELLE PLAN GORGEOUS ELECTRICAL NUPTIALS

MISS AGNES ROSE LANE.
Atlanta, Sept. 3.—Brooklyn, the City of Churches, will experience a new sensation on September 16, when the chime bells of Christ's Church will ring out for a most unique wedding. The bride is to be Agnes Rose Lane, a beautiful young actress, whose home is in Brooklyn, and the groom James G. Rossman, a young trolley magnate, of Atlanta, Ga.

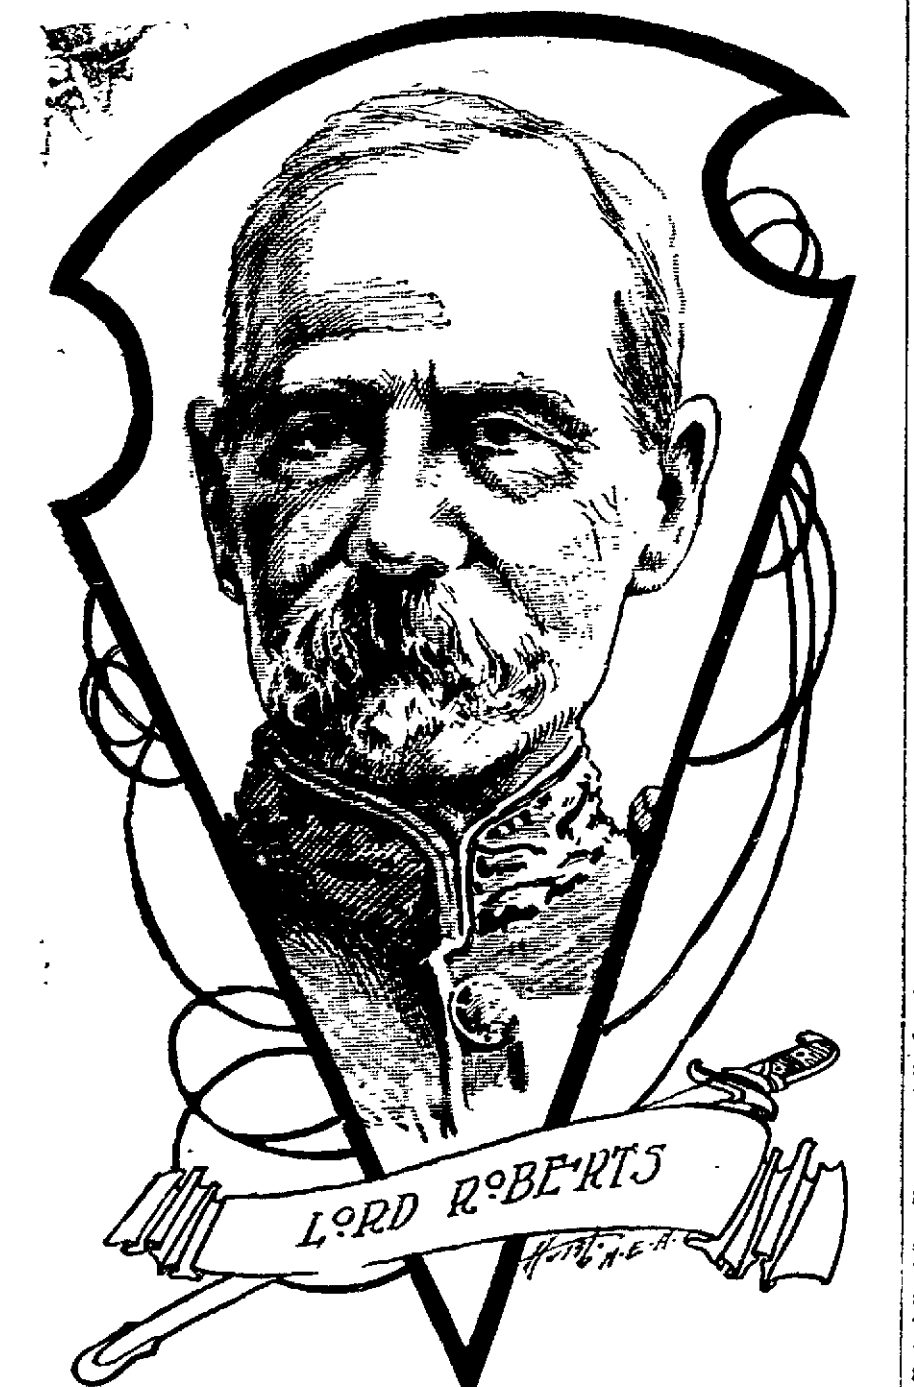

Miss Lane has starred in Hoyt's comedies with Otis Harlan. It was while playing in Atlanta that she met Rossman, since his boyhood, has devoted every moment of his life to the mysteries of electricity. It is not surprising, therefore, that he has determined to have what may well be termed an electrical wedding. Christ's Church will be decorated with more than a half mile of silk cable, fairly alive with miniature electric lights. Flowers and leaves will be entwined among the bulbs. On one side of the altar will be an immense "L" in white incandescent lights; on the other side will be the letter "R," in green lights, suspended and decorated with flowers. As the bride party enters the church these lights will burn very dimly; but, as the bride nears the altar, they will be gradually brightened, to burn with full force as the ceremony is performed. Over the altar will hang a monogram, combining the "L" and "R". There will be dark until the couple is pronounced man and wife, when they will burst forth in all their golden glory. Along the aisle, instead of ribbons to keep the people in the pews, there will be a long line of white electric lights attached to silk cord, supported by temporary standards in the center aisle, so that the people can pass under them into the pews. After they are seated these ribbons will be lowered to rest upon the tops of the pews. As the bride enters the church the white lamps will be turned on, so that she will walk between two fairly blazing lines of light. After the ceremony the cords, with their lamps and smiles, will be raised, section by section, starting at the altar, so as to prevent any confusion in people leaving the church.

There will be seats reserved for the Professional Women's League and Order of the Eastern Star, both of which orders will attend in a body. Their pews will be decorated with the insignia of the orders in colored electric lights.

Another unique feature of the wedding will be the ring bearer, a pretty little 4-year-old girl. She will carry the ring on a white satin cushion. Inside the cushion will be a storage battery. The cushion and tassels will be ornamented with miniature electric lights, while in the center of the cushion will be a circle of small lamps, with the ring, tied with ribbon, inside the circle. A souvenir will be presented to all who attend the wedding, in the shape of a cotton ball, tied with a prepared card in ribbon. The fleecy staple will also figure largely in the decoration of the church.

Rossman is known by some of his friends as "Electric Jim." He is the principal owner of an amusement park a sort of a miniature Coney Island, in Atlanta, and he has announced his intention of turning all of the entire park, with everything in it, over to the public, entirely free, on his wedding day.

"BOBS" COMING OVER TO SEE UNITED STATES

Field Marshal Lord Roberts, "Bobs" of Tommy A. U. S., will visit the United States in October. With his staff he will sail from England Sept. 23. That Lord Roberts will be welcomed with open arms in this country, goes without saying. "Bobs" ranks foremost among the world's fighting men, and is worshiped by the enlisted men of the English army as Gen. Miles is among the enlisted men of the army of the United States.

SELECTIONS

QUEER FOOD IN EUROPE.

Black Rubber and Silk Chopped Up to Stimulate Truffles.
In a report on the subject of food adulteration in Europe, Consul General Guenther at Frankfurt makes the following statements:
An article on the adulteration of food products is going the rounds of the German press. It is stated, for instance, that an ordinary liver patty is made into fine "Strassburger" pate de foie gras (goose liver patty) by means of borax or salicylic acid and of finely chopped and cleverly distributed pieces of black silk, representing truffles.
Cosmos, a German paper, guarantees the fact that under the label of canned lobsters the soft parts of the cuttlefish and crabs are sold.
In Paris snails are of late very popular, and the adulterators mix them with lungs of cattle and horses. Even entirely artificial snails are manufactured. The shells, coated with fat and slime, are filled with lung and then sold as "Burgundy" snails.
Lovers of fresh rooster combs are imposed upon by a substitute cut out of hogs' intestines.
Chopped artificial truffles are made of black rubber, silk or softened leather, and even whole truffles are made out of roasted potatoes, which are given a peculiar flavor by adding ether. They are said to sell well.
Fish spoiled in spite of ice and borax is treated with salts of zinc, aluminium and other metals. Rubbing the fish with vaseline to give it a fresh look and coloring the gills with fresh blood or eosin—a coal fair color—is resorted to. The latter is also used to intensify the red color of inferior crabs.
Imparting a greenish color to oysters is another adulteration. An oyster requires about one month in the beds to acquire the greenish color. As this is too long a time the dealers help them along with an artificial color.
The chemists in the Paris municipal laboratories have shown that tomato jelly is adulterated with turnips, and powdered pepper contains a large admixture of powdered hard tack.—Washington Star.

The Kaiser's Pipe.

The German emperor seems bent on breaking fresh ground in every direction, for we learn that on going ashore at Helgoland the other day he was wearing oilskins and "smoking a short pipe"—probably a French briar, unless indeed it may have been an Irish day cutty. This is quite a new departure. Like his majesty's recent assumption of a pince nez when reading newspapers in the train. When he began his reign the kaiser smoked nothing but cigarettes—very long and big ones they were, and from these he gradually ascended to light Dutch cigars, almost of straw color, costing a penny each.
Now he has taken to a pipe such as may be seen between the teeth of yachtsmen at Cowes. His father, the Emperor Frederick, took his tobacco in a porcelain pipe of the student type. The old emperor, on the other hand, true to the tradition of his youth, never went beyond raising a cigarette to his lips at military messes and shooting parties as a signal to the rest of the company that they might now light up.—Exchange.

Rare Coins for Philadelphia.

Philadelphia will soon possess two of the rarest coins known to exist. They are the famous silver dollars of 1794. One is at present in the Philadelphia mint, and the other was purchased recently by Henry Chapman, Jr., numismatist.
The latter coin was bought by Mr. Chapman at the sale of the Murdock collection of coins and tokens held in London.
The dollar purchased by Mr. Chapman surpasses the similar coin at the mint in perfection and fineness.
Mr. Chapman wrote to the auctioneer in advance that he was willing to pay as high as $500 for the coin. It was knocked down to him for $240.
The 1794 dollar is similar in face appearance to the dollars now in circulation, having the medallion face on the front encircled with stars and the date. On the reverse is the spread eagle seated on the wreath.—Philadelphia North American.

The Limit of Train Speed.

A recent test of speed on the Pennsylvania railway proves conclusively that the accounts of trains attaining a speed of 100 miles an hour, even for a short distance, are apocryphal. Over a stretch of twenty-five miles of perfect track on the New Jersey and Seashore division the Pennsylvania officials ran a train with their fastest engines, and ninety miles an hour was the highest rate ever reached. One coach after another was dropped, and finally, with the engine alone, on several runs, ninety-five miles and one-tenth was the best that could be done. The distance was accurately measured, and the chronograph used in the tests was absolutely correct.

An Odd Horse Case.

A horse belonging to a Missouri man got a lump on its jaw three years ago. Its owner had a veterinary surgeon operate on the animal the other day, and he took out a hard, smooth substance about four inches long and an inch wide, resembling a white stone. Those who have examined it say it is a petrified cornob. The commonly accepted theory is that the horse, while eating, had a cob caught in its mouth, which slowly worked its way into his jaw until it lodged just beneath the skin. The animal never seemed to suffer from its presence.

Awful skin disease of this woman cured in a few weeks after fifteen years' terrible affliction.

(Case of Mrs. J. M. Daniels of Winchester, Ky., completely cured by D. D. D. after 7 weeks' application. She had suffered fifteen years.)

See the same features—but note how different when brightened with hope and happiness, after her freedom from it all.
Reader! This is more than medicine talk. It is humanity to enlighten sufferers about this.
The most virulent skin diseases are conquered—every time—in all cases—without any exception—all cleared away in a few weeks—by the brilliantly clever new skin prescription, "D. D. D." Its work is hardly equalled by any other wonders of modern medical practice.

I guarantee this to be true
F. D. HALL, Newark

Enough has been proven to me—regarding the above case and hundreds of others—to demonstrate beyond all question whatever that any of the known forms of skin disease—any eruption or breaking out—must quickly give way and disappear under the influence of this prescription (known as "D. D. D."). Cases of Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, Psoriasis, Barber's Itch, Acne, etc., some of twenty years' standing have been cleared off and permanently cured in a few weeks. In several cases from one to three years have elapsed and there has been no returning sign of the disease. Hundreds of cases cured since the preparation has been placed on sale show no sign at all of the previous affliction and I fully believe they are permanent cures.
(Signed) F. D. HALL.

Have you been—or do you know anyone, who has been—in a living hell of torture with a skin disease? Dispar usually seizes those so afflicted. Many imagine it is in the blood and too subtle to cure. Doctors have stood baffled and helpless against Eczema. Half of them think its worse forms are blood poison. Ninety-nine cases out of a hundred of manifestations on the skin are purely local—SALT disease—not BLOOD disease. Healthy blooded people break out as often as any one, the blood has nothing to do with it in most cases. It is a parasite in the skin that spreads. This prescription is today completely clearing away—quickly too—and permanently curing every trace of such parasitic trouble and leaves the skin soft, healthy and perfect. Call on the above druggist and investigate the unquestionable proofs in his possession.
The prescription is sold in above drug store at $1.00 for a liberal bottle, and comes under authentic label of the D. D. D. Company of Chicago, who solely compound the prescription for druggists everywhere.
Sold at Hall's Drug Store, 10 North Side Square, Newark, Ohio.

When the Judge Awoke From Sleep

There was no mistake about it, the judge was asleep. The embarrassed young lawyer, who had reached the telling point of his argument, spoke in a higher key, and then raised his voice until the walls of the room reverberated. But the judge slept on.
The court officers were blind to the young lawyer's hints. At last, in desperation, he turned to his opponent.
"Now, Mr. Grubber, you see the delicate situation I am in, and there's only one way out. Unfortunately I haven't any books with me, but if you don't mind I am going to knock over that pile of yours."
With a well directed gesture the young lawyer struck the books, and they, as well as the chair on which they had been standing, went down with a terrific crash just as his astonished opponent leaped to his feet and exclaimed:
"But I do most emphatically object!"
And the judge, without raising his head from the position it had been occupying for the last fifteen minutes, replied with all his wonted dignity:
"Jection overruled."—New York Press.

Unavoidable Delay.

The late hours called at the general office of the life insurance company.
"We want to know," they said, "why you are so long in paying the $100,000 called for in the policy our deceased relative carried in this company. He died three months ago and we were promised we should have it in less than sixty days."
"What was his name?" asked the president.
"Benjamin Franklin Londer-chelag."
"Ah, that is the reason, gentlemen," affably explained the president of the concern. "It had been a short, easy name like David Jones or Thomas Johnson the matter would have been settled and you would have got your money long ago."—Chicago Tribune.

TRUST VIOLATED

Young Man Took Nearly All His Father's Estate and Went to Central America With a Woman Companion.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 3.—A sensation has been sprung in Baltimore society circles by the disappearance of William T. Tucker, or "Willy" Tucker, as he was familiarly known by his friends, and the announcement that he looted a trust estate of $500,000. He is now said to be in Central America. With his mother, the young man was co-trustee of the estate of his father, the late Wesley A. Tucker. His mother was abroad with one of her daughters when other members of the family made discoveries which resulted in a hasty cable message to Mrs. Tucker to return. These discoveries include escapades in which two women figure, one of whom went to Central America with Tucker, returning later. The other claims to have been jilted by him and seeks redress in a suit for damage.

The arrival of Mrs. Tucker in Baltimore enabled an investigation of the contents of the safe deposit box in which the securities of her husband's estate and her own were kept. Then the startling revelation came that there was a defalcation amounting to $500,000, and that of all the property existing when given over to the care of Wm. T. Tucker, there was only $30,000 left.

It appears that Mrs. Tucker had absolute faith in her son and refused to credit stories of his dissipation and was deaf as well to suggestions that the estate be taken out of his hands. The great confidence placed in him is demonstrated by the fact that he was authorized to open the safe deposit box alone, which is a very exceptional privilege. The unexpected return of Mrs. Tucker from Europe and the arrival in this city of Mrs. George H. Glover, of New York, one of her daughters, the visit of both to the trust company with an officer of the court having jurisdiction over the estate, and the necessity of breaking open the safe deposit box soon became public gossip and created a stir.

Tucker who is about 35 years of age, has been plunging in stocks, so it was not much of a surprise to those acquainted with these facts to hear that he had proved unfaithful to his trust. Members of his family, however, were slow to speak against him, and it is understood that there will be no complaint to the police.

He was under no bond and there seems to be no chance of recovering any of the losses to the estate. The young man, it is understood, has left a written confession. It is also stated that he told the woman who went with him to Central America when they arrived there that he was short in his accounts with the estate and this caused her to return to Baltimore. Information of Tucker's whereabouts was received by the family through this source.

Mrs. Wesley A. Tucker lives at 809 St. Paul street, but she spent the summer in Europe. She had been for some time at Aix les Bains, France, with her daughter, Mrs. Howard Ridgely. While there Mrs. Tucker was notified from Baltimore that the safe deposit box had been rifled. She sailed immediately for home.

Tucker was connected with the former boot and shoe firm of Tucker, Smith & Co., of which his father was a member. He is a member of the Maryland, Baltimore and Eldridge Fox Hunting Club. He was recently made the defendant in a suit brought by Miss Sarah G. Morris, of Baltimore, who demanded in all about $41,000. Of this amount she declared that $2,400 had been loaned by her to Mr. Tucker. She asked $25,000 for breach of promise and $10,000 for alleged assault. To recover the $2,400 suit was brought for $6,000.

GRANVILLE

IMPROVEMENTS ON THE HILL AND IN TOWN.

Old Denison to Make Rapid Strides Forward—New Buildings are to be Erected.

Granville, O., Sept. 3.—The improvements that are constantly being made in Granville, both "on the hill" and in town, make this old college town a more desirable place to live every year. The new college buildings that are projected, and the other proposed improvements that are to be made are such a glorious and prosperous future is in store both for Denison university and Granville, and the indications are that there will be a general uplifting of conditions in Granville before the close of another year.

The result of the work that has been going on "on the hill" during the past several months is gratifying, not to say surprising.

A handsome new residence for the president of the college has been constructed, which is beautifully and artistically arranged and is a credit to the institution.

The college and academy dormitories are being completely remodeled by Contractor James C. Linn, of Newark, and when completed will be fitted up with all modern conveniences, including shower baths, etc.

A new heating plant is being built on the Evans lot on College street, which is designed to heat all the rooms in the college building. This will enable the management to have the buildings heated at all times without fear of shortage of fuel.

It is reported that the contract has been let for the new Y. M. C. A. building, and that work on it will be commenced in the near future on the Evans lot on College street.

If there is anything that the average Granvillian takes a pride in it is her schools. This spirit has been fostered and encouraged for years, and to day old Denison stands on a par with the highest in the land. This high degree of efficiency is due largely to Dr. Emory Hunt, the present president of the college, and his able corps of assistants. With the addition of the proposed new buildings, and its largely increased facilities, hundreds of new students will enroll themselves on the books of Denison.

While parents who desire to give their children the benefits of a good college education, will, many of them, remove to Granville, and it is in this way that Granville will be greatly benefited. Even now it is difficult to rent a house in town, and several pieces of property have changed hands lately at prices which show that the growth and development of Granville are having their effect.

This old town is a delightful place to live in, and every citizen should rejoice in its advancement. That it is advancing and improving is noted by visitors to town and the improvement will be much more marked when the new college buildings get under way.

PRICE FAMILY REUNION.
Granville, O., Sept. 3.—One of the most enjoyable reunions that has been held in this part of the county this summer was that of the Price family, held at the old Price homestead, in the Welsh Hills. All the sons were present for the first time in twelve years, and the day was spent in having a good social time, and in the discussion of a sumptuous dinner. Those present were Professor Ira M. Price, Chicago; Brian Price, Milwaukee; E. J. Price and family, Chicago; M. E. Price and family, Milo B. Price and family, Philadelphia; O. J. Price, Freeport, Ill.; and Homer C. Price and wife of Columbus.

RANSOM'S BARBER SHOP.
Granville, Sept. 3.—Among the many improvements recently made in Granville which is deserving of special mention, is the remodeling of the Ransom tonorial parlors. There is nothing appreciated more by the students than a first class barber shop. Mr. Ransom has had his rooms completely remodelled and furnished with the best that money could buy. A new combination mirror case has replaced the old one. It is a beauty and contains three handsome mirrors, 36x48 inches. Three new hydraulic chairs have also been added, and new bath tubs put in.

BOTTLE MAKING.

Work of Forty-Two Men Done it is Claimed, by a Machine Which a Toledoan Has Just Invented.

The following from Toledo, Ohio, will be read with interest by the hundreds of glassworkers in Newark: The glass bottle business may be revolutionized by the introduction of the Owens automatic bottle machine, which has just been perfected by Michael J. Owens of this city.

The Owens Bottle Machine company of Toledo, was chartered in New Jersey Wednesday with a capitalization of $3,000,000, every cent of which has been paid in, with E. D. Libbey, the millionaire cut glass manufacturer, as the leading spirit of the enterprise. The machine which has been produced by Mr. Owens is entirely automatic and, it is claimed, will do the work of 42 men and boys under the old system of bottle manufacture. It is the result of four and half year's experimental work.

Under the old system the bottles are blown singly and made by hand and mouth of the operative at the rate of 16 gross per day for six men and boys, and the new automatic machine will, it is declared, rush the finished bottles through at the amazing speed of 90 gross per day or nine bottles every minute, minus the labor of six men and boys.

The machine not only manufactures faster than under the old method, it is said, but promises a saving in the cost of beer bottles at from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 per annum.

The incorporators of the new company are E. D. Libbey, M. J. Owens, Wm. S. Walbridge, F. L. Geddes and Clarence Brown of Toledo. It will take over, develop, operate and control all of the Owens inventions, which up to this time have been the property of the Toledo Glass company.

PLAYED

Slot Machines and Lost, Then Denied Drink Young Man Shot Saloonist and Himself.

Wooster, O., Sept. 3.—A possible murder and a suicide were enacted at Orrville. Harry Laubach, aged 20, who resides with his parents in Wooster, lies dead, while his victim, Max Lees, a saloon keeper, at Orrville is suffering from wounds which surgeons think will cause death. Just what led to the shooting is not known, but it is believed that Laubach fired the shots while in a demented condition.

Laubach entered Lees' saloon, near the public square at Orrville, and, it is said, after playing between $5 and $8 into the slot machine, went to the bar and demanded a drink from Lees, who refused, saying: "You are a good enough fellow, but I won't give you anything to drink."

Lees was standing near a slot machine when Laubach started toward the door. Laubach, drawing a revolver, fired four shots. Lees fell to the floor. The first shot lodged in his neck. Laubach made his escape through the rear door.

About 3 a. m. when John H. Buttermore went to his stable he found the body of Laubach lying near it cold in death. Near the body was revolver, and an examination disclosed the fact that Laubach had shot himself twice. In his pocket was a bottle of carbolic acid.

The young man's parents were notified and they had the body removed to Wooster. Laubach had been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railway at Pittsburg, but was laid off when the forces were reduced. Surgeons say Lees has small chances of recovering.

The occupants of the wagon and several persons on the car were hurt. Miss Clara Rust was the most severely injured. "BLACK DEMON"

Joe Wolcott Has Blue Blooded Neighbors.

Aristocratic Malden, Boston's ultra-fashionable suburb, is agast over the recent invasion of its confines by Joe Wolcott, the colored welterweight champion. For years the neighborhood of Wolcott's new home has been famous as the home of Malden's first mayor and great philanthropist, Deacon Eli S. Converse, and his son, Col. Harry E. Converse. A fence divides Wolcott's cozy cottage from the confines of the Converse estate.

Wolcott has plenty of money made by wallowing white aspirants to his title. He spent considerable money to get his new home and is spending more to furnish it and fix the grounds to suit him. The house is a two-story affair. The grounds include more than 5000 feet of land. A gymnasium is located in the rear and here the "Black Demon" spends most of his time.
